Now, Isn't This So?

A traveling sales agent visiting a large factory made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among the employees. Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married, and in almost every case he was right. "How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement. "Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the single men don't."

Something new at 314 S. Main. Expert upholsterers from St. Louis and a beautiful line of upholstering tapestries.

PICKED UP IN THE ORCHARD

Dressing of Wood Ashes Beneficial to All Fruit Trees—Bones Promote Growth and Vigor.

A dressing of wood ashes around the fruit trees and grape vines is a benefit. It supplies the loss of the alkalis, which are largely consumed by fruit, destroys the acidity in the soil and tends to sweeten all kinds of fruit.

Bones, old leather, refuse plaster and soap suds, all constitute good fertilizer for the fruit trees.

Bones appear to be the best of all to promote permanent growth and vigor in a tree.

A handful of bone dust mixed with the soil at the roots of a tree or grape vine will show its beneficial effects for a number of years.

When grapes or berries are too tender and will not stand up in first class condition to pick and market, it shows that the soil on which they grow is deficient in potash.

The custom of summer pruning of young trees so as to ripen the fruit early is not approved by the most skillful fruit growers and is only allowable when the intention is to throw the whole force of the sap into those particular branches that it is desired to train in some particular direction.

No fruit ripens so well nor has so fine a flavor when the foliage is injured by summer pruning. This fact is observable in our apple, peach, and pear orchards when the worms have consumed the leaves on a limb. You will always find the fruit on such a branch of poor quality and inferior flavor.

The leaves are the lungs of a plant and are required to perform an important function in ripening the fruit.

Skim Milk for Pigs on Alfalfa.

Experiments at the New Mexico station indicate that skim milk is a valuable feed in connection with alfalfa pastures, being worth 12 cents per hundred pounds when fed alone, and when corn is worth 56 cents per bushel; and that it is worth 25 cents per hundred pounds when fed with corn at the rate of two to three pounds of skim milk to one pound of corn. Compared with wheat, when fed alone, seven to eight pounds of skim milk equaled one pound of wheat.

Source of Disease.

This is the season when lice and other vermin and parasites, internal and external, seem to multiply marvelously, and as the animals are weakened by hot, dry weather and defective water supply and unsanitary conditions of pens and lots, we have a combination of dangers that every intelligent breeder appreciates and every careless man ought to neglect no longer. Filth and vermin are prolific, a source of unthrift and disease.

Preferred Fertilizers.

Commercial fertilizers should always be bought on a guarantee of analysis, so the percentages of the various elements may be known, and so the grower may know what forms the plant foods are in. Preference should be given to fertilizers where the composition is definitely stated, because intelligent plant feeding is not possible without knowing the source of the various components of the fertilizer.

To Keep Silage.

A good way to make the ensilage keep at the top of a silo when it is filled, is to put part of a load of straw through the silo filler just before it is through the job. Then sow a pall or two of oats on the straw covering and dampen them. This covering does away with about half of the spoiled ensilage, to be thrown out after the ensilage settles.

Fighting the Red Mites.

The little red mites which trouble poultry are small, but they are one of the worst pests which poultry keepers have to fight. They do their greatest havoc during the hot weather, and they are extremely happy when they find a dark, damp, dirty hen house.
